He proposes to spend his remaining days in retirement.

The following letter has been received from Mr. Julian Adair, who for the past several weeks has been exhibiting his thoroughbred chickens in several of our prominent cities. In competition with Cook, The Originator, Owens farms and others, they did not get a single first nor second prize, while I landed them all; first and third hen, first cockerel, third and fifth cockerel, fourth and fifth pullet, fourth and fifth hen, and silver cup given by our country."

Local Parcels Post Opened Jan. 1.

The local postoffice will open tomorrow under the new parcels post law and Postmaster Moore with his force are making extensive preparations for handling this class of matter.

Many inquiries are being made concerning the official parcels post map issued by the Postoffice Department. For the benefit of the public the information is given that an official parcels post map is issued by the Postoffice Department. For the benefit of the public the information is given that an official parcels post guide together with a copy of the parcels post regulations, effective January 1, 1913, may be purchased from the postoffice department. Any person desirous of this information should remit a money order for seventy-five cents to the chief clerk, Postoffice Department, Washington, D. C., for which he will receive the map and guide and a copy of the regulations.

It is not necessary to have these maps and regulations to send parcels post packages. The information will be furnished at any of the substations or at the main office. But those who will have a considerable parcels post business to do might find it more convenient to have them.

Distinctive parcels post stamps must be used on all fourth class matter and such matter bearing ordinary postage stamps will be treated as "held for postage." All parcels will be mailable only at the postoffice or presented to a rural carrier or other carrier duly authorized to receive such matter. No branch offices of the local postoffice will be established in this city for the weighing or receiving of parcels. All parcels must bear a return card of the sender, otherwise they will be accepted for mailing.

Could Folly Go Further?

A very small dog created a great stir in the streets of Paris a few days ago. A bijou pet dog was seen in the Champs Elysees with a lady. It was wearing indiarubber boots laced high up the leg, ear protectors, goggles to shield his eyes from cold or mud, and a raglan overcoat lined with thick flannel and provided with a pocket from which projected a tiny handkerchief with a monogram.

Candor and Manners.

Pitt was once canvassing for himself, when he came to a blacksmith shop. "Sir," said he to the blacksmith, "will you favor me with your vote?" "Mr. Pitt," said the son Vulcan, "I admire your head, but I hang your heart." "Mr. Blacksmith," said Pitt, "I admire your candor, but I hang your manners."

Matter of Doubling.

Oliver Wendell Holmes was a classmate of Doctor Clarke at Harvard, and according to the reminiscences of the latter, the Autocrat of the Breakfast Table was as witty then as late. One day the two were talking metaphysics, when the bright-tongued little great man exclaimed, "I'll tell you, James, what I think metaphysics is like. It is like a man splitting a log. When it is done he has two more to split!"
